

Gelda's House of Gelbelgarg

A frequent problem in computational linguistics is that text passages often use words that the computer simply doesn't have in its dictionary. Online slang evolves very fast, people use foreign words in English passages, people make typos and invent new abbreviations, etc. You could add new words to the dictionary as fast as you can find them, and the next day, the program could still be stumped by a new one!

But the program doesn't have to give up—instead, it can try to work out as much as it can. Various clues can tell a program whether something is a noun or a verb, a person or an inanimate object, etc., and you can even work out more! The following is a webpage where customers have rated their most recent experience at Gelda's House of Gelbelgarg. Even if you've never heard of any of these dishes, you can still figure out some things about them...

I.I. Based on the following reviews, attempt to categorize the following items into:

- I: Individual, discrete food items
- L: Liquids, undifferentiated masses, or masses of uncountably small things
- C: Containers or measurements

You won't be able to categorize them with 100% certainty, but use the category that you think is most probable for each. Choose a single category for each word below.

A hidden gem in Lower Uptown! Get the färsel-försel with gorse-weebel and you'll have a happy stomach for a week. And top it off with a flebba of sweet-bolger while you're at it!

The portions at this place are just too big! I'd rather have half the portions at a lower price – they just bring out too many göngerplose and too much meembel for me.

I found the food confusing and disorienting. Where is this from? I randomly ordered the färsel-försel and had to send them back! Three words: weird, weird, and weird.

I went to Wolserl last year for a holiday, and this is the real thing. If you order the gelbelgarg, though, make sure you also get at least one rolse of sweet-bolger – it's how the locals like it!

The food was pretty good... But I would have liked more gorse-weebel and fewer göngerplose. You really feel like the chef is skimping on the good stuff..
