Dr. Amber Manning-Ouellette

Dr. Manning-Ouellette is a Leadership Studies faculty member and director of the global leadership study abroad program. Her research interests include college student sexuality, higher education policy issues, student development, gender and diversity, and first-year student transition and retention.

Women’s and Gender Studies Seminar Series

In A Woman’s Voice: A Qualitative Study on How First-Year College Women Understand their Sexual Experiences -- Dr. Amber Manning-Ouellette

Monday, March 6, 2017
1030 Morrill Hall
12:00-1:00 pm

Join Women’s and Gender Studies affiliate faculty member Amber Manning-Ouellette for a discussion highlighting the narratives of first-year college women and how they navigate sexual experiences, consent, and construct identity. Findings include the pressure to perform stereotypical sex gender roles through public and private sexual identity. The talk will also offer successful strategies to combat sexual assault, movement toward sexual equity among gender roles, and provide a model on first year college women sexuality development.

Women’s and Gender Studies Program

The Women’s and Gender Studies Program examines issues relevant to social identities such as gender, sexuality, race, ethnicity, and age, challenges existing systems of knowledge, and forges new scholarship based on the centrality of gender as a category of analysis.

For More Information

For information about the Women’s and Gender Studies seminar series, contact Mike Goebel, mgoebel@iastate.edu.

For information about the Women’s and Gender Studies Program, contact Director Ann Oberhauser, anober@iastate.edu, 515-294-9283.