The Iowa State University Women’s and Gender Studies Program invites applications for a lecturer position for the 2021-22 academic year.

The candidate will demonstrate excellence in teaching and working with students in various disciplines. The candidate will teach Intro to Women’s and Gender Studies, Contemporary Queer Studies, Intersectional Feminism, and/or Popular Culture. The successful candidate will teach five courses over two semester in both face-to-face and online formats.

We encourage applications from individuals who will participate in shaping the program through curriculum development, student advising, and outreach initiatives. This appointment includes a one-year contract with potential of renewal.

Preference will be given to candidates who hold a PhD in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies or a related discipline with a minimum of two years teaching experience. The candidate should have demonstrated teaching in both online and face-to-face formats in higher education with evidence of ability to work with diverse student, faculty, and staff populations.

The Women’s and Gender Studies Program is centered on teaching, research, and outreach to the university campus, local community, and broader areas of society. Iowa State University is committed to increasing the diversity of our community and seeks applicants dedicated to applying principles of equity and inclusion in all areas of the campus community.

The review of applicants will begin on June 15, 2021 and remain open until filled.

Applications should include 1) Resume/Curriculum Vitae 2) Letter of Application/Cover Letter and 3) Contact Information for Three References
